Missionary Called Home for Christmas

James Gould '55, missionary in Ivory Coast under the Conservative Baptist Foreign Mission was taken to be with the Lord on Christmas Day as the result of an auto accident in which he was thrown from the car when it hit a hole off the side of the road while he was driving home.

In her report letter of February 8, Lois (Frieswyk) '56 Gould wrote, "I think each of us would have to admit that Jim's Christmas was far more complete than ours as he drove home to Christmas dinner with us only to find himself all the way 'home' with Him. And yet His presence couldn't have been more real to those of us left behind. What a wonderful Savior we have, and how we long to go 'home' too, but He would have us stay yet a little while. His peace to us while here has really been past human understanding and how my heart goes out to wives who have no hope of seeing loved ones again. This land is full of just such women and my prayer is for them and their families, that God would use Jim's death to bring many of them to Himself.

"We are not yet certain as to what the Lord would have us do here in the Ivory Coast, though I do believe He would have us continue here for a time. Would you please pray with us concerning His specific will for the future."

On Christmas eve Jim showed filmstrips and spoke on the birth and life of Christ at the Ferke church. At the end of the meeting Jim gave an earnest invitation.

The family had opened their gifts on Christmas morning. Jim went to the 8:30 morning service and at 10:30 he left to take some fellows home to their village. On his return trip near a village about four miles from home, the village chief heard a crash and found Jim lying about 40 feet from the overturned car.

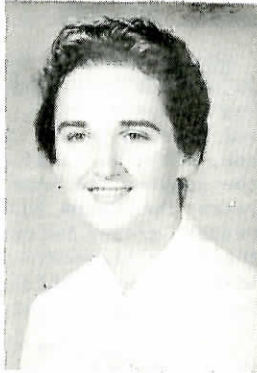

While waiting at home Lois sought to ease her concern by reading the Bible and the verses she found seemed to prepare her for the news of Jim's death.

The funeral service was held at 9:00 a.m. on Sunday morning. The message was given by an African pastor and Jim's body was laid to rest in the cemetery about two miles from the church at Ferke.

The Goulds had returned for their second term in July. Lois teaches their children, Lori in first grade and Greg in Kindergarten. She assists in secretarial work for the doctor in the mission hospital and for the field chairman as she continues to study French and care for the family.
